STORM'S DAMAGE ON BATTLEFIELD

Many Large Trees Blown over in Fury of Wednesday Afternoon's Storm. Devil's Den Avenues Suffer. Force Clearing up Debris.

Cutting a wide swath over some of the prettiest portions of the battlefield, the electrical, wind and hail storm which visited this section on Wednesday did damage which will require many days to clear away. This morning the men at work in the National Park were assigned to clean up all the debris possible in preparation for Memorial Day crowds.

On Ayers and Brooke avenues, in the rear of Devil's Den, eleven fine
big trees were leveled to the earth, Ayers avenue being completely blocked to travel. Nine massive trees on Culp's Hill fell before the fury of the storm and other trees were down in Reynolds' Woods, Spangler's Woods,
on Round Top and in Pitzer's Woods.

In addition, hundreds of limbs, large and small, were torn off and many trees were seriously damaged
by losing some of the finest branches.
The portions of the field on which the storm was at its worst looked as though a veritable cyclone has vented its fury there and the destructive force of the wind was everywhere apparent. Little, if any, damage was done by lightning.

The larger trees and limbs will all be cut up into the usual cord wood length and disposed of in the customary manner. The smaller branches will all be hauled away. Work for some days confronts the regular force of men but it is believed the field may be gotten into fairly presentable shape for the thousands of visitors
expected on Saturday.

Some damage from the storm was reported in the county. At Orrtanna the wind blew down two of the brick walls of the new home of Charles Spence. The walls had been erected as far as the first floor. The rear wall was thrown into the cellar and the front wall was blown out.

Gettysburg had more hail than any other part of the county, and reports from the fruit belt say that practically no damage resulted from that source. Even the leaves on the trees were scarcely cut by the sharp bits of hail that fell during the storm.

The storm was general over the entire county, and almost all the towns and townships reported brilliant lightning and heavy thunder. No buildings were destroyed but a number of telephone lines were temporarily put out of commission. Some trees were struck and the rainfall was heavy almost everywhere.

Lightning struck the chimney at the home of John Koontz in York Springs and started a fire in the gar-ret of the house. It was put out, however, before any serious damage was done.

Two barns were burned in York County, as the result of Wednesday afternoon's storm. The one belonged to Harvey C. Masamore, near Seven Valleys. The stock was saved but most of the implements burned. The other barn burned was on the farm of Moses Kauffman near Mulberry. Implements, one calf and 300 bushels of corn was destroyed.

WILL ADVERTISE TOWN WITH FILM

Response from Gettysburg Business Men Warrants Going ahead
with Big Advertising Scheme Started a Month ago. For Movies.

Four thousand feet of motion picture film showing Gettysburg and its environs is now practically assured provided the business men not yet approached show the degree of response equal to those who have been canvassed during the past few days.

As stated in The Times a month ago, a plan was formulated at a meeting of railway officials and business men held at the Hotel Gettysburg to attract excursionists here by exhibiting motion pictures, in charge of a competent lecturer, at various excursion points throughout Pennsylvania and nearby states. Since that time J. A. Ring, who was the moving factor in the proposition, has been assisted in completing arrangements by John Walker. Their plans have matured to the extent of contracting with the Superior Film Mfg. Co., of Des Moines, Iowa, to have a camera man here on Memorial Day that he may catch the crowds on the streets and take views of the ceremonies at the cemetery.

After a thorough search among the various motion picture firms the Iowa company was selected to make the views because of their excellent reputation and the fact that they would contract to do the work at a much lower price than any of the others.
A telegram was dispatched to them on Wednesday advising them that their bid was accepted and directing them to have their man here early Saturday morning. Because of the short notice it is possible that their man may miss connection and in that case the picture of the town and field will be taken without the Memorial Day exercises. The advantage of having the May 30th crowds is fully appreciated and nothing will be left undone to have them incorporated in the film.

An important part of the picture is that the views be arranged in sequence so that a connected story may be told by the lecturer who will accompany it when it is sent upon the road.
This will be attended to by George L.
Kieffer, a former resident of the town, who is not without fame as a battlefield lecturer. Mr. Kieffer is at present attending the Union Theological Seminary in New York City and doing special work at Columbia University. His work was recently recognized by his election to the American Historical Association. He is enthusiastic over the picture idea and in a letter to the promoters assured them that he will be on hand Saturday to assist the camera man. Among the suggestions from Mr. Kieffer that will be carried out is to avoid everything of an ostensible advertising nature; to have the picture primarily an educational feature, and while it is intended to show some of the business houses, not to show them as a chewing gum sign might be thrown upon the screen, but to make them a connected part of the whole.

Word has also been received from
C. F. Stewart, General Passenger Agent of the Western Maryland, that the railway company will go ahead with the thousand feet showing the approaches to Gettysburg which they agreed to make at their own expense as soon as the film which the town is to furnish is completed. They will probably employ the same man who takes the battlefield views. As formerly stated, the town's share of expense for the film will aggregate about $700.00. At least $300 additional will be required to pay the lecturer and advertising expenses before the venture becomes self supporting. The promoters of the project have considerably less than this in hand but it was thought the response already shown justified their proceeding without delay so that the Memorial Day exercises would not be missed. Immediate returns from the plan are not expected but the general effect should be sufficient to have every active citizen do his share towards its success.

A letter from Colonel Lewis E.
Beitler to a friend here stated that the H. B. B. Motion Picture Company, of which he is now secretary and treasurer, contemplates making a film at the cemetery on Saturday for release in their regular weekly service during the early part of June.
While this had not been definitely decided when Colonel Beitler wrote, if their plan does mature, it will aid materially in the general publicity work without expense to local people.

GRAMMAR SCHOOL COMMENCEMENT

Forty Seven Graduates Receive Diplomas at Fifth Annual Commencement of Gettysburg Grammar Schools. Prizes Awarded.

Forty seven graduates of the Gettysburg Grammar Schools received their diplomas at the fifth annual commencement exercises in the Meade School building this afternoon. A large number of friends attended the exercises.

The entertainment portion of the program included a number of recitations and, as a special feature, the "Story of Hiawatha" in verse and tableaux. Many of the pretty scenes from the old Indian legend were given,
the making of arrow heads, the departure of Hiawatha and Minnehaha and their return, were all shown in pretty scenes. Harry Walter took the part of Hiawatha, Wilda Hotzworth was Minnehaha, Lydia Kirssin was Nokomis, and Charles Hummelbaugh took the role of the arrow-maker.

Mrs. Walter H. O'Neal, regent of Gettysburg Chapter, Daughters of the American Revolution, presented each of the graduates with a pretty booklet on "The Flag" and all the pupils gave the salute to the flag. The address to the graduates was made by the Rev. R. S. Oyler, pastor of the local Methodist church.

Irvin L. Taylor, representing the Gettysburg School Board, presented the prizes. Gladys Burgoon received a book for having the highest general scholarship; Luella Paxton for the best mark in deportment; Ruth Spangler for the highest average in spelling in the Eighth Grade and May Belle Lott for the best spelling average in the Seventh Grade. Mr. Taylor also presented the diplomas, which admit the boys and girls to the Gettysburg High School.

An exhibit of the sewing done in the schools was an interesting portion of the display of work performed in the Grammar Schools.

The graduates who received diplomas this afternoon were George Au-men, Agnes Bigham, Andrew Big-ham, Gladys Burgoon, Hannah Cook, David Dougherty, Mary Eden, Bom-
lyn Gilbert, Lloyd Gilbert, Edna Heagy, Blanche Hoffman, Wilda

Hummelbaugh, Fred Hummelbaugh,
Marian Kappes, William Kendlehart,
James Kissinger, Radford Lippy,
Lydia Kirssin, Annie Lott, Paul Mc-
Clean, Henry McDonnell, John Mc-Gaughey, Carleton Mumper, Robert Oyler, Louella Paxton, Beatrice Pfeff-
er, Gladys Raymond, John Rummel, Ruth Spangler, Francis Stahle, Ruth Stallsmith, Clarence Stoner, Miriam
Taylor, Earl Utz, Mary Walker,
Grace Weaver, Constance Weaver,
Sara Weaver, LeRoy Winebrenner,
Harry Walter, Verna Wisler, Ruth
Weygandt, Melvin Hill, Raymond
Spahr, Grace Sheads.

BACK TO WORK

Local Yard Crew will again be on the

a week the railway company found the traffic would not permit its discontinuation.

W. C. T. U. WILL GIVE FOUNTAIN

Local Temperance Organization Secures Funds to Place Bubbling Fountain in Northwest Corner of Center Square. Cups Condemned.

With the drinking cups at Gettysburg's fountains on Centre Square and at the Court House condemned by the health authorities, visitors to the town find no public place here at which to quench their thirst and the Gettysburg Woman's Christian Temperance Union has taken the matter in hand.

Mrs. Charles F. Sanders was appointed a committee on the question and she secured the necessary amount of funds for the purchase of a bubbling fountain to be placed in front of Eckert's Store near the location of the present fountain. The funds were contributed by the business houses located on the eastern side of the Square and by the W. C. T. U. Allen
B. Plank, through whom the fountain has been ordered, has tendered as his contribution its free installation.

Nothing has been done toward replacing the present fountain at the Court House. Both of the old ones will be working on Saturday, Memorial Day, and the W. C. T. U. is endeavoring to secure enough paper cups to supply all the visitors who may care to use them.

These fountains have proved a great convenience on days when big crowds visit the town and the fact that the State Health Board condemns
the common drinking cup will deter many from using them this year. The local temperance organization will have on hand a supply of the paper cups which they will sell at a cent each. It is scarcely hoped that they will have enough of the cups to meet the demand, especially if the ten or more excursions now booked bring the number of tourists expected.

SHERMAN SIGNED

Will Go to Pittsfield, Mass., at Close of College Season.

The services of Paul Sherman who has been pitching for Gettysburg College this season, have been in demand
by managers of State League teams.
Sherman, after considering several offers, put his signature to the contract of the Pittsfield, Mass., club, of the Eastern Association, to which place he will go at the close of the college season.

George Heckert, of the York Tri-State team, made several attempts to land Sherman, but the inducements offered were not sufficient to satisfy the young twirler, so he will go "down East".

Sherman, pitching for the college
team has won all his games, and shutout the York Tri-States in the opening game of the season, at York, and that performance, for a recruit, impressed Heckert.

BUCHANAN VALLEY

Buchanan Valley—On Sunday last at 3:30 p. m. St. Ignatius church held the annual May Procession. There was a full attendance of the congregation, the day being fine for the occasion.

The procession was headed by the Sunday School children and Sodality of the Blessed Virgin and choir with the pastor, Rev. Father Howard.
Master Bernard Kimple was cross bearer, who led the procession, followed first by the small boys of the Sunday Schools, then the banner bearer Edgar Kimple with two cord bearers, Richard Cole and Eugene Kimple. Then came the young men of the Sodality.

The little girls followed them. The banner bearer was Miss Gertrude Kimple, with two ribbon bearers
Pauline Oyler and Juneau Sneering-er, dressed in white with veils and wreaths, these preceded the queen,
Miss Myrtle Kane, with her two maids of honor, Susan McEnrick and Alice Brady also dressed in white and veils.
The young ladies of the Sodality and choir followed, the choir singing the Litany of the Blessed Virgin, as the procession wound its way through the church yard and around the building into the church.

After the singing of the hymn
"Bring Flowers that are Fairest" the queen proceeded to the altar and after a recitation of a hymn she crowned the statue of the Blessed Virgin with a beautiful crown of white flowers composed of roses and carnations.

The Benediction of the Blessed Sacrament was given after a sermon by Rev. Father Howard on the life of the Blessed Virgin, and the honor paid to her by the faithful, which ended
the happy afternoon of the little ones and their parents. A very appreciative crowd of admirers, filled the space surrounding the church.

Mrs. Elizabeth Strasbaugh and her sister, Mrs. Annie Shorb, spent a week with relatives in Waynesboro and surrounding towns, returning on Thursday last.

Mr. and Mrs. Paul Martin and son, William, and brother spent Sunday at the home of A. W. Cole; also Joseph Turbidy and wife of Franklin county.

30,000 MEN TO HOLD VERA CRUZ

Funston Needs That Number, Declares Correspondent.

HUERTA'S MESSAGE TO ARMY

Will Never Resign and Bids His Soldiers Prepare For the Struggle to Come—Fortifying Route to Capital and Planning to Attack Vera Cruz, Now Surrounded by 17,000 Mexicans.

Harry H. Dunn, a New Orleans newspaper man, arrived at New Orleans from Mexico and has a copy of a circular which he says General Huerta caused to be distributed among his soldiers around Vera Cruz a short time ago. It follows:

"If you hear that I have been captured by the Americans you may believe it; if you hear that I have been slain, murdered under the guise of an execution by those of the north, you, my brave soldiers, also may believe that, but if you hear that I have resigned tell all the world on the sacred oaths of your swords that it is a lie.

"I have entered into no arbitration agreement which includes my resignation, nor will I resign under any consideration. Meanwhile I bid you prepare yourselves. I bid you make ready with all patriotic zeal for the struggle which is to come."

"That circular," said Mr. Dunn to a New York Times correspondent, "was distributed to the rank and file of Huerta's forces on the very day the Niagara Falls peace conference was decided upon. I have ridden the Mexican lines from outpost to outpost, talked with their commanders and have found that they are fortifying every desirable point along the route from Vera Cruz to the City of Mexico. Not only that, but there are now 17,000 Mexican soldiers surrounding Vera Cruz on three sides.

Sinister Preparations.
"I am confident they will attempt to recapture Vera Cruz, despite any mediation that may be effected, and I have derived my opinion from talks with high officials of the United States that are now in Vera Cruz as well as from personal observations of Mexican forces and talks with their officers.

"Few persons know that only very recently 4,000 well mounted, armed and hard trained rebels have deserted their cause to join the federal forces surrounding Vera Cruz and constantly moving nearer to the port held by American arms. Few realize that more rebels are joining them daily and that every preparation is being made by the Mexicans to attack Vera Cruz. Huerta realizes that he can avoid death at the hands of Villa and Zapata only by having the United States capture him, and he is determined this shall be done at no matter what cost. General Funston and his officers realize that this move is being made on the town. They need at least 30,000 more American soldiers there today, so that when this attack does come they will be prepared.

"A little north of Jalapa, at Paso del Macho, a narrow rift in the mountain wall, is General Garcia Pena, in supreme command of all the Huerta forces in the state of Vera Cruz. Pena recently succeeded General Gustavo Maas, who evacuated Vera Cruz before the landing of American marines. With him are 2,000 federalists made up of tried and trusted men.

Huerta's Best Soldiers.

"Following the line around to the north and east toward the coast one comes upon the little station of Tembladeras on the Mexican railway. There is Candelario Fugarte, formerly a lieutenant of Zapata. Just back of Tembladeras, so as to be well out of sight and hearing of the American outposts, there are encamped 2,000 rebel cavalry, the best of the horde of 20,000 fighters which Zapata's four years in the field have produced. These men have no artillery, and I do not know how many guns are in possession of Garcia Pena at Paso del Macho, but Fugarte's rebels are all mounted, finely armed and abundantly supplied with ammunition, all sent down from Huerta's store in Mexico City. They form probably the best fighting force of all Huerta's Vera Cruz army.

"Turning abruptly to the east, toward the gulf coast, one finds about seven miles north of Vera Cruz the celebrated leader, Rafael Ruiz, with nearly 2,000 men, mostly infantry.

"There remains still another post. Almost due south of Vera Cruz, at Tejar, the waterworks which supply the port city, is Lieutenant Borrega, with 2,500 mixed federalists and rebels. "Linking these heavy posts all the way around Vera Cruz are the nominal outposts of the Mexicans, placed face to face with the American outposts often only a few yards from them. In these Mexican outposts appear only a few ragged peon soldiers, always in fewer number than the Americans in the opposing outpost. Yet not a night passes around Vera Cruz in which a body of from 200 to 500 mounted Mexicans fails to appear where some American outpost can see them plainly.

"Some night, mediation or no mediation, there will be an attack, and it will not be by 500 or by 5,000, but by the whole force of the brown skinned army."

POSTAGE STAMPS OF EVERY DENOMINATION FOR EXHIBIT

Washington Collection Finest in the World With One Exception.

The $100,000 collection of postage stamps that for years has been gathering dust in the archives of the postoffice department is being arranged and classified for exhibition at the National museum. J. B. Leavey, government philatelist, and T. T. Belote, head of the museum's division of history, expect to have the exhibit in permanent shape within about a year.

Officials of the museum and the postoffice department say the only collection of stamps which excels in completeness the one now being arranged is that owned by the British museum. There are specimens of every variety and denomination of stamps ever issued by this government, as well as a collection of practically all the stamps ever used by any government since the use of postage stamps began. Included in the collection are specimens of the original British stamp of the forties, which was as large as an ordinary envelope of today, as well as the sizes issued in later years.

So far only nineteenth century issues and about $10,000 worth have been put on exhibit. A novel case, consisting of scores of sliding vertical sections, all locked with one key and absolutely airtight, contains the stamps. The idea was taken from the British museum, but the cases are a great improvement on those there employed.

Among the most valuable stamps in the collection are the Franklin carrier stamp of the forties, which brings $100; the "Type I" of 1851, whose faded square inch of paper is valued at $200, and the one cent type of the same year and like value.

"The value that attaches to a stamp," said Mr. Leavey, "is determined very queerly sometimes. A misprint, a recalled issue and historic association bring up the worth of a stamp to amazing figures in a few years. Intrinsically they have no value. If stamp collecting fell into disfavor all over the world a good many paper fortunes would vanish at a blow."

COULDN'T BOSS BRADLEY.

Kentucky Senator Told Hanna One Way Was as Far as Another.

Work and persistence marked the life of the late United States Senator William O. Bradley of Kentucky from the time he first began to rise.

There was a time in his early struggles when he slept in his law office and had only one suit of clothes. When he was laughed at for his aspiration to be the Republican governor of his state his answer was to "work and persevere," and he was elected—elected as the first Republican governor that Kentucky had ever had.

When he left Louisville to go to Washington to take the oath as senator he said that he was going to have the tariff schedule on hemp increased and he was going to have the tax removed from leaf tobacco. Again every one laughed. But he made good his assertion.

Once when Mark Hanna wanted Bradley to come to Washington for a conference because the national administration did not think he was running things right he wired Mr. Hanna that it was as far from Frankfort to Washington as it was from Washington to Frankfort.

SAFETY RULES FOR VACATION

Practical Advice on Camping. Don't Take Too Much.

WHAT YOU CAN'T DO WITHOUT

Personnel of the Party is Important Consideration—Precautionary Measures to Guard Against Accidents in the Woods—How to Tow a Drowning Person by Using Various Holds.

With the approach of vacation season and the popularity of camping parties the appended advice and suggestions are of timely value:

The primary mistake of the novice at camping is that he takes too much. A cooking outfit for two should consist of a frying pan with detachable handle, coffeepot, enameled ware kettle, large spoon, hunting knife and fork. For table service carry three enameled ware plates or dishes about an inch and a half deep, two large cups of the same material, two knives, two forks and two spoons. The plates are deep enough to hold soup or chowder.

The outfit should always include a small ditty bag, containing thread, needles, pins, court plaster, buttons, stout twine and a small pair of scissors.

In camp a doctor is seldom available, so take a medicine chest along.

Your Camping Friends.

The personnel of a camping party for the mountains is a most important consideration. They should all be thoroughly well acquainted and absolutely congenial in spirit. A camp far in the woods is no place to become acquainted with any one. If he develop unpleasant traits you can't get away from him.

No matter how good a friend a person may be of yours, don't take him in camp with you if he is a "kicker." A man who will shirk or grumble at any duty he is assigned to about a camp will set an entire party by the ears almost before the tent is up.

Don't have with you the fellow who is always on the watch for an opportunity to get the best of everything, from the brownest trout at breakfast to the most advantageous corner at bedtime. Then there is the man who is always in unseemly haste to get at the creek or lake first with his rod. Don't have too many in your party.

Four men, en rapport, make the ideal camp.

Here's a tip to the wise, the culinary wise—build a small fire for cooking. With a large fire the heat becomes unbearable when you get near enough to manage the pans and kettles. Food burns before it is properly cooked. The surface of the frying pan heats unevenly. But with your little fire, with its clear flame, you can do what you will. The pancakes brown to a nicety. The bacon sizzles merrily with no danger that the flame will leap into the pan.

To Tow Drowning Person.

To tow a drowning person to safety the easiest method is to hold the back of the head well down and swim on the back with a leg kick, keeping the subject in a horizontal position.

Should he begin to twist and turn change to a position so that you hold him around his chest with his head on your chest and you will continue to swim on your back. This is the hardest but safest method, as it is impossible for the subject to clutch the rescuer, a contingency that by every means must be prevented, as a frightened person is never to be trifled with. Sometimes he will sink not only the nails, but the fingers, into the flesh.

If the subject is amenable to reason one may, when tired of this position, turn on the side and try the side stroke, placing the upper arm under the subject's armpit, still keeping him on his back.

An easy way to save an exhausted swimmer who has become exhausted is to have the latter lie on his back. With stiff elbows he simply keeps his open hands on the rescuer's shoulders as the rescuer pushes him toward shore. It should not be tried if the subject himself has not confidence in the water.

Safety First For Hunters.

Always keep the gun pointed from yourself and other persons.

In getting over logs and fences always see that the gun is first put over and in a solid position where it will not fall. Then go to another place to climb over.

Do not shoot into moving bushes or in the direction of a noise without being sure the desired game is there and seeing it for a certainty.

If you are going for fun only, it is all right to take inexperienced friends, a well filled lunch basket, literature and a target and go to the nearest grove. If you are going for game go alone or with experienced hunters only; carry what is essential; hunt with the back to the sun.

School For Foreign Employees.

The Bayonne (N. J.) board of education and the officials of the Standard Oil and General Chemical companies, which have large plants in Bayonne, are co-operating to teach English to their foreign employees. The companies will furnish the classrooms and the city instructors. The men will be allowed to attend the classes in the daytime.

At Least One.

STRAWBERRIES prepared with gelatin make handsome and delicious desserts.

Strawberry Pudding.—Take ten ripe strawberries, two whites of eggs, two cupfuls of whipped cream, one tea spoonful of vanilla extract, two cupfuls of strawberry juice, two heaping tablespoonfuls of powdered gelatin and four tablespoonfuls of sugar. Put the gelatin into a saucepan, add the strawberry juice, dissolve over a gentle heat, remove from the fire, add the sugar, the vanilla extract and ten large ripe strawberries which have been quartered. Stand on ice until the mixture begins to thicken; then fold in the whipped cream and the whites of the eggs stiffly beaten. Pour into a wet mold and place on ice till required. Turn out and decorate with ripe strawberries.

Flavored With Vanilla.

Strawberry Charlotte.—Take a level tablespoonful of granulated gelatin and soak it in a fourth of a cupful of cold water until soft; dissolve by standing in a bowl of hot water. Cut large, firm berries into halves, dip them into the liquid gelatin and use for lining a chilled bowl. The bowl must be cold that the gelatin may quickly harden and the berries adhere to their positions. Whip a pint of cream until stiff, add two-thirds of a cupful of sugar, the remaining gelatin and vanilla to flavor. Turn this mixture into the bowl, taking care not to displace the berries, and chill thoroughly. Turn from the mold and surround with berries. Serve, sprinkling the berries with powdered sugar.

With Cream or Custard.

Strawberry Mold.—Take one and a half pints of milk, two ounces of oat sugar, one pound of strawberries, one ounce of leaf gelatin, the rind of one lemon and a little cochineal. Put the milk and lemon rind in a saucepan on the fire and bring it to the boil; then strain out the rind and add the sugar. Rub the strawberries through a hair sieve; then add the pulp to the milk. Melt the gelatin in about two tablespoonfuls of boiling water; then strain it into the other ingredients. Mix all well. Add the cochineal to make the mixture a pretty pink. Rub a fancy mold in cold water, pour in the mixture, stir it occasionally till it is just beginning to set. When it is quite cold dip the mold into tepid water and turn the contents on to a pretty dish. Cream or custard is a nice accompaniment to this dish.

THE NEW SPORT COSTUMES ARE PRACTICAL AS WELL AS PLEASING.

For genuine comfort in out-of-door sports one must dress the part. It is quite natural to choose a light green, or vivid scarlet for these sport costumes and materials are heavy but light weight; tweeds, homespun, vicuna and silk are worn with these heavy skirts and sports coats of reversible stuffs, pocketed and strapped in most approved fashion. Even in Paris this fad for the "Costume Sport," as they call it, has taken a firm hold; no wardrobe is complete without one, even if it only serves the purpose of making its wearer look picturesque. The coat shown in 8130-8212 is fashioned of bright green corduroy and worn with a skirt of white duroy and worn with a skirt of white duroy. Raglan shoulders, a wide stitched belt and large patch pockets are features of this model. The skirt

TRAINING THE HORSE.

Kindness Produces Better Results Than Harsh Treatment.

Many valuable animals are spoiled by improper or harsh treatment. A man who is incapable of understanding the disposition of the horse is certainly incapable of training him, for the horse is endowed by the Creator with rare intelligence, says Dr. W. E. Conner in the Farm Journal. Therefore, in his tender age, he should have good care and proper training by being used with kindness and good judgment; at the same time he must be given to understand that, although frightened or excited, he is to obey.

The horse being more nearly human than any other animal you can get along much better if you hold a consultation with him to a certain degree. For instance, if you were going to ask a favor of a crank would you go to him and say, "I need help, and you have got to help me or I shall force you to do it?" Would the man do it or not? Yet that is the way the so called horse breaker does. In my experience of training colts and older horses two-thirds of those I have handled have been called vicious by other trainers.

It is bad policy to train a colt unless he is in the best of spirits. If you train a colt that is thin in flesh, in poor spirits and on light food, as some men do, he will not take notice of objects that he otherwise would. My idea is to have him in the best of spirits and keep him so. You can do so by giving more oats and less whip.

Pure Breeds Pay Best.

Many people are turning off their grade dairy cattle to make room for pure bred herds. This is one of the most encouraging features of dairying. The grade has a place in building up the farmer and the farm. Many cannot afford to begin with high priced pure breeds, and many have not the courage to invest money in these, but if they will begin with the grades it will not be long before you see these particular farmers advertising their grades at public sale in order to make room for the pure breeds. This is history and is continually repeating itself. —Kimball's Dairy Farmer.

Hint For Hog Raisers.

If the cobs are raked up and burned in the hog lot the hogs will eat the charcoal, and you will be doing two things—you will be getting rid of an inconvenience when it comes to cleaning out the hog yard and you will be giving the hogs a good feed that acts as sort of a tonic and helps to regulate digestion.

Economic Epigram.

A sentimental declaration, even if it runs counter to sound economics and the best interests of society, will have more adherents than a profound truth in political economy, the adoption of which demands an immediate sacrifice.

The VALIANTS of VIRGINIA

(MRS. FALLIE ERMINE RIVES POST WHEELER)
ILLUSTRATED BY LAUREN STOUT

CHAPTER I—John Vallant, a rich society favorite, suddenly discovers that the Vallant corporation, which his father founded and which was the principal source of his wealth, has failed.

CHAPTER II—He voluntarily turns over his private fortune to the receiver for the corporation.

CHAPTER III—His entire remaining possessions consist of an old motor car, a white bull dog and Damory court, a neglected estate in Virginia.

CHAPTER IV—He learns that this estate came into the family by royal grant and has been in the possession of the Vallants ever since.

CHAPTER V—On the way to Damory court he meets Shirley Dandridge, an au-burn-haired beauty, and decides that he is going to like Virginia immensely.

CHAPTER VI—An old negro tells Shirley's fortune and predicts great trouble for her on account of a man.

CHAPTER VII—Uncle Jefferson, an old negro, takes Vallant to Damory court.

CHAPTER VIII—Shirley's mother, Mrs. Dandridge, and Major Bristow exchange reminiscences during which it is revealed that the major, Vallant's father, and a man named Sassoon, were rivals for the hand of Mrs. Dandridge in her youth. Sassoon and Vallant fought a duel on her account in which the former was killed.

CHAPTER IX—Vallant finds Damory court overgrown with weeds and creepers and the buildings in a very much neglected condition. Uncle Jefferson and his wife, Aunt Daphne, are engaged as servants.

CHAPTER X—Vallant explores his ancestral home. He is surprised by a fox hunting party which invades his estate. He recognizes Shirley at the head of the party.

CHAPTER XI—He gives sanctuary to the cornered fox. Gossips discuss the advent of the new owner and recall the tragedy in which the elder Vallant took part.

CHAPTER XII—Vallant decides to rehabilitate Damory court and make the land produce a living for him.

CHAPTER XIII—He meets Shirley, who has been gathering flowers on the Vallant estate, and reveals his identity to her.

CHAPTER XIV—Vallant saves Shirley from the bite of a snake, which bites him. Knowing the deadliness of the bite, Shirley sucks the poison from the wound and saves his life.

CHAPTER XV—Shirley tells her mother of the incident and the latter is strangely moved at hearing that a Vallant is again living at Damory court.

CHAPTER XVI—Vallant learns some of the history of his family from Doctor Southall and Major Bristow.

CHAPTER XVII—He learns for the first time that his father left Virginia on account of a duel in which Doctor Southall and Major Bristow acted as his father's seconds.

CHAPTER XVIII—Vallant and Shirley become good friends. Mrs. Dandridge faints when she first meets Vallant.

CHAPTER XIX—Vallant works wonders in the old place. He discovers that he has a fortune in old walnut trees.

CHAPTER XX—With the advice and assistance of the major and Shirley, Vallant restores the garden to what they were in his father's time.

CHAPTER XXI—The yearly tournament, a survival of the jousting of feudal times, is to be held at Damory court.

CHAPTER XXII—At the last moment Vallant takes the place of one of the knights, who is sick, and enters the lists.

CHAPTER XXIII—He wins and chooses Shirley Dandridge as queen of beauty to the dismay of Katharine Fargo, a former sweetheart, who is visiting in Virginia.

CHAPTER XXIV—The tournament ball at Damory court draws the elite of the countryside. Shirley is crowned by Vallant as queen of beauty.

CHAPTER XXV—Vallant tells Shirley of his love and they become engaged.

CHAPTER XXVI—Katharine Fargo is deeply humiliated at reading in the faces of Vallant and Shirley the evidence of plighted troth.

CHAPTER XXVII.

The Ambush.

Not long after, from the musicians' bower the sound of "Home, Sweet Home," drifted over the poignant rose-scent, and presently the driveway resounded to rolling wheels and the voices of negro drivers, and the house-entrance jostled with groups, muffled in loose carriage-wraps, silken cloaks and light overcoats, calling tired but laughing farewells.

Katharine, on the step, found herself looking into Vallant's eyes. "How can I tell you how much I have enjoyed it all?" she said. "I've stayed till the very last minute—which is something for one's fourth season! And now, goodbye, for we are off tomorrow for Hot Springs."

Her father had long ago betaken himself homeward, and the big three-seated surrey—holding "six comfortable and nine fumellah," in the phrase of Lige the coachman—had returned for the rest: Judge Chalmers, the two younger girls and Shirley. Katharine greeted the latter with a charming smile. What more natural than that she should find herself straightway on the rear seat with royalty? The two girls safely disposed in the middle, the judge climbed up beside the driver, who cracked his whip and they were off.

The way was not long, and Katharine had need of dispatch if that revengeful weapon were to be used which fate had put into her hands. She wasted little time.

"It seems so strange," she said, "to find our host in such surroundings! I can scarcely believe him the same John Vallant I've dined with a hundred times in New York. He's been here such a short while and yet he couldn't possibly be more at home if he'd lived in Virginia all ways. And you all treat him as if he were quite one of yourselves."

Shirley smiled enchantingly. "Why, yes," she said, "maybe it seems odd to outsiders. But, you see, with us a Vallant is always a Vallant. No matter where he has lived, he's the son of his father and the master of Damory court."

"That's the wonderful part of it. It's so—so English, somehow."

"Is it?" said Shirley. "I never thought of it. But perhaps it seems started up at the touch of Shirley's hand, yawning widely. "I 'clare to goodness," she muttered, "I was jes' fixin' 't go 't sleep!"

"I—I'm so tired, Emmaline. Take the crown. Its heavy."

The negro woman untangled the glittering points from the meshing hair with careful fingers. "Po' 'll chickydee-dee!" she said lovingly.

"Reck'n she flop all th' feddahs outer her wings. Gimme that o' tin crown—I like ter lam' it out th' winder! Come on, now; we go upstairs soft so's not ter 'sturb 'M's' Judith."

In the silvery-blue bedroom, she deftly unfasted the hooks of the heavy satin gown and coaxed her mistress to lie on the sofa while she unpinned the masses of waving hair till they lay in a rich surge over the cushion. Then she brought a brush and crouching down beside her, began with long gentle strokes to smooth out the silken threads, talking to her while in a soft crooning monotone.

Under these ministrations Shirley lay languid and speechless, her eyes closed. The fear that had stricken her heart by turns seemed a cold hand pressing upon its beating and an algid vapor rising stealthily over it. But her hands were hot and her eyelids burned. Finally she roused herself.

"Thank you, Emmaline," she said in a tired voice, "good night now; I'm going to sleep, and you must go to bed, too."

But alone in the warm wan dark, Shirley lay staring open-eyed at the ceiling. Slowly the terror was seizing upon her, the dread, noiseless and intangible, folding her in the shadow of its numbing wings. Was her mother the one over whom that old duel had been fought? She remembered the cape jessamines. Was the date of that duel—the death of Sassoon—the anniversary her mother kept?

She sat up in bed, trembling. Ther she rose, and opening the door with caution, crept down the stair, sliding her hot hand before her along the cool polished banister. As she passed through the lower hall, a hound on the porch, scenting her, stirred, thumped his tail on the flooring, and whined. Groping her way to the dining-room, she lighted a candle and passed through a corridor into a low-ceilinged chamber employed as a general receptacle—a glorified garret, as Mrs. Dandridge dubbed it.

It showed a strange assemblage! A row of chests, stored with winter clothing, gave forth a clean pungent smell of cedar, and at one side stood an antique spinet and a worn set of horsehair furniture.

Shirley had turned her miserable eyes on a book-shelf along one wall. The volumes it contained had been her father's, and among them stood a row of tomes taller than their fellows—the bound numbers of a county newspaper, beginning before the war. The back of each was stamped with the year. She was deciphering these faded imprints. "Thirty years ago," she whispered; "yes, here it is."

She set down the candle and dragged out one of the huge leather-backed. Staggering under the weight, she rested its edge on the table and began feverishly to turn the pages, her eye on the date line. She stopped presently with a quick breath—she had reached May 15th. The year was that of the duel: the date was the day following the jessamine anniversary. Fearfully her eye overran the columns.

Then suddenly she put her open hand on the page as though to blot out the words, every trace of color stricken from cheek and brow. But the line seemed to glow up through the very flesh: "Died, May 14th; Edward Sassoon, in his twenty-sixth year."

The book slipped to the floor with a crash that echoed through the room. It was true, then! It was Sassoon's death that her mother mourned. The man in whose arms she had stood such a little while ago by the old dial of Damory Court was the son of the man who had killed him!

"Oh, God," she whispered, "just when I was so happy! Oh, mother, mother! You loved him, and your heart broke when he died. It was Vallant who broke it—Vallant—Vallant. His father!"

She slipped down upon the bare floor and crouched there shuddering and agonized, her disheveled hair wet with tears. Was her love to be but the thing of an hour, a single clasp—and then, forever, nothing? His father's deed was not his fault. Yet how could she love a man whose every feature brought a pang to that mother she loved more than herself? So, over and over, the wheel of her thought turned in the same desolate groove, and over and over the paroxysms of grief and longing submerged her.

Noiselessly as she had descended, she crept again up the stair. As she passed her mother's door, she paused a moment, and laying her arms out across it, pressed her lips to the dark grain of the wood.

Gentleness at Home.

Use your gentlest voice at home. Watch it day by day as a pearl of great price, for it will be worth more to you in days to come than the best pearl hid in the sea. A kind voice is joy, like a lark's song, to a hearth at home. It is a light that sings as well as shines. Train it to sweet tones now, and it will keep in tune through life.—Ellis Burritt.

Transferable Distinction.

Markley (to pestering insurance man)—"Look here, when you talked to me last year, you told me that the company you were with was the best in the world." Agent—"My dear sir, it was at that time, but the company I am now with, having since had the benefit of my services, has, of course, taken the honor away from it."

THREE SCENES AT GETTYSBURG DURING THE FIFTY-YEAR-AFTER CELEBRATION.

NEVER again will the world see so splendid a reunion of veterans of the civil war as that which assembled at Gettysburg July 2, 3 and 4, 1913, the fiftieth anniversary of the greatest battle of the war. Fifty thousand veterans of both sides gathered to participate in the formal and informal celebrations and to fraternize not only with their brethren of their own side, but with the survivors of the other cause. It was the glorious climax of the "one land, one flag" movement which has united north and south since the unhappy days of the war.

Boy Fans Twenty-seven.

Westboro high school in a sixteen inning game defeated Marlboro high at Westboro, Mass., for the Middlesex county leadership by a score of 1 to 0.

The feature of the battle was Whitney's pitching for the winner. The high school twirler in the sixteen innings allowed the Marlboro batsmen only two hits, passed five and struck out twenty-seven. Colleary, who pitched for Marlboro, was found for six safe hits and struck out fifteen of the Westboro lads.

Medical Advertising Be Pretty! Turn Gray Hair Dark Try Grandmother's old Favorite Recipe of Sage Tea and Sulphur

Almost everyone knows that Sage Tea and Sulphur, properly compounded, brings back the natural color and lustre to the hair when faded, streaked or gray; also cures dandruff, itching scalp and stops falling hair. Years ago the only way to get this mixture was to make it at home, which is messy and troublesome. Nowadays, by asking at any drug store for "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Hair Remedy," you will get a large bottle of this famous old recipe for about 50 cents.

Don't stay gray! Try it! No one can possibly tell that you darkened your hair, as it does it so naturally and evenly. You dampen a sponge or soft brush with it and draw this through your hair, taking one small strand at a time; by morning the gray hair disappears, and after another application or two, your hair becomes beautifully dark, thick and glossy.

Training Outweighs Long Service

There is no better proof of this than the every-day scenes of long service, untrained employees at the beck and call of younger men who occupy the big positions because of their training. It's a case of Training vs. Long Service—with the odds in favor of the trained man.

Get out of the untrained rut. Mark and mail the attached coupon and let the I. C. S., of Scranton, tell how you can qualify for a better position. How you can protect yourself against servitude in your old age. How you can become an expert at your chosen line of work.

That the business of the I. C. S. is to Raise Salaries is shown by the monthly average of 400 letters voluntarily written by students reporting salaries raised and advancement won through I. C. ### ANDRE BALLOON FOUND IN SIBERIA

Sweden to Probe Discovery of Ruins of Gas Bag.

Stockholm, Sweden, May 28.—What is believed to be the remains of the balloon in which Professor Salomon A. Andre ascended from Dane's Island, near Spitzbergen, July 11, 1897, in an attempt to reach the North Pole, have been found in a forest in eastern Siberia, according to a telegram received at the Swedish foreign office from Yakutsk.

A thorough investigation of the reported discovery has been ordered by the government. The Arctic explorer was accompanied by two scientists, and after leaving Dane's Island no report ever was received from the party.

Although traces of Andre's balloon have been reported at various places from time to time, nothing has ever definitely been established as to what actually happened to the expedition. Andre and two companions, Messrs. Strindberg and Froenkel, started from Dane's Island in the hope of being carried by trade winds to the North Pole and land safely in North America.

Five buoys from the balloon have been picked up. The first, found in Norway, in June, 1899, contained a note from Andre and was thrown out eight hours after his departure. The "North Pole buoy," to be dropped when the pole was passed, was found empty off King Charles Island in September, 1899. A third buoy, also empty, was found on the west coast of Iceland in July, 1900, and another was reported from Norway a month later.

Scranton, Pa., May 28.—During the thunder storm that swept this section lightning struck the dormitory in the grounds of the Hillside Home of the Scranton poor district at Clark's Summit, and before the flames were extinguished caused a loss estimated at about $4000.

The building was filled with paupers, but they left in an orderly manner and were taken to other buildings. The home is without adequate fire fighting facilities, but the building burned was several hundred feet distant from the main buildings.

The situation for a time was so threatening that Scranton was called upon for assistance, and Chief Ferber and a squad responded with apparatus.

TRANSIT LINES COST MILLIONS

Philadelphia to Build Subways and Elevated.

WILL SPEND $63,000,000

The City to Construct New Lines at Cost of $45,582,000 and Traction Company Equipment to Cost $11,966,000.

Philadelphia, May 28.—Director of City Transit A. Merritt Taylor made public the terms of the tentative agreement between the city and the Rapid Transit company, by which it is proposed to construct the system of subway and elevated lines for rapid transit in Philadelphia.

The agreement provides for all the lines recommended by Director Taylor in his report as transit commissioner last year, prior to the creation of the department of city transit.

It provides that the lines shall be built by the city at an approximate investment of $45,582,000, and equipped by the Rapid Transit company at a cost of $11,966,000. The P. R. T. will operate the new lines for a period of fifty years, after which the city is to take possession.

The agreement also makes provision for the construction by private capital of a tube from Front and Market streets to Camden, which would cost in the neighborhood of $6,000,000, making the total capital invested by all parties at interest approximately $63,000,000.

The lines to be constructed follow: Frankford elevated line, connecting with Market street subway at Front and Arch streets. The cars on this line will run from Frankford to the Market street subway and thence on through the subway to Thirtieth and Market streets and on to Darby until such time as it may be necessary to construct a subway under Chestnut street.

Darby elevated line, from Thirtieth and Market streets to Darby. Broad street subway, with branches to be determined upon, from League Island north and delivery loop in the business section. Councils will determine whether to have the subway stop at Pike street or Olney avenue.

The cost of construction to the city will be: Frankford line, $6,516,000; Darby line, $4,390,000; Broad street subway, with delivery loop, $24,682,000.

The cost of equipment, to the company, will be: Frankford and Darby lines, $4,603,000; Broadstreet subway, $7,393,000.

Provision is made for free transfers outside the district bounded by Arch and Walnut streets and the Schuylkill and Delaware rivers, beginning Jan. 1, 1916. Universal transfers, applying to the business district, will not become available until 1920.

PRISONERS IN NEAR PANIC

600 Inmates of Jail Scream in Terror as Laundry Burns.

Philadelphia, May 28.—Six hundred male prisoners rattled the doors of their cells and made the interior of the house of correction at Holmesburg ring with their cries of terror as they looked from the windows upon fifty of their companions, under the supervision of guards, battling with flames which destroyed the laundry of the institution after lightning had struck the roof of the building.

Out of sight of the burning structure, but not out of sight of the flames and of the dense clouds of smoke, the prisoners in the women's building added to the vocal inferno with their screams.

Not until the guards had made the rounds of both buildings with the assurances that they would be removed if the slightest danger threatened them did the fear-dazed men and women regain their composure.

Refused Marriage License; Dies.

Greensburg, Pa., May 28.—Theodore Merlow, of Smithtown, was found dead in bed at his home. Death is attributed to disappointment. Last week Merlow, who was seventy-five years old, called at the office of the marriage license clerk in company with a Mrs. Bessie Student, a widow, twenty-two years old. Merlow was unable to show that he could support a wife, and it also developed that his first wife died in the county home. The clerk refused to grant the license. The old man left the office in tears. Friends say he was despondent ever since the refusal to permit him to marry.

A minimum estimate of from 5,000,000 to 1,000,000 horsepower is placed on the water power that is now going to waste in the Appalachian mountains.

The trellis should be ready for the sweet peas soon after they come up, as the tendrils do not take hold so well if the vines are allowed to grow some time without a support.

Lubricating oil not only saves wear and tear on the axles of vehicles and machinery, but it reduces pulling strain to a minimum. The rule for oiling should be "little and often."

More small chicks suffer from over-feeding than from underfeeding. The little fellows' gizzards are pretty small, and for this reason they should be fed frequently, but rather sparingly.

If stalky bushes are desired the new raspberry canes should be pruned off when they have reached the right height. Such pruning also tends to produce more bearing wood for the coming season.

With good steak retailing at all the way from 20 to 30 cents a pound there ought to be little question that there will be good money in the cattle business for any farmer who will follow it consistently.

Johnny bread and milk is a balanced ration. It is good for the kiddies and their parents and is one of the cheapest as well as most nutritious rations that can be prepared. More folks ought to eat Johnny bread and milk.

They are poor and sorry folks indeed to whom the woods with their flowers and birds have no deep charm. Perhaps a love of the outdoors can be cultivated in just the same way that it can be crowded out and smothered. Anyway, it is worth trying to develop it as one has opportunity.

Some rape should be sowed in a portion of the cornfield just before the last cultivation. Three or four pounds to the acre should be enough. The land might just as well be growing rape as weeds, and the rape will furnish a fine pasture in the fall, particularly if a portion of the field is fenced off and hogged down.

A friend who has an alfalfa field that has been established twelve years brought the writer on May 8 a sprig of one of the plants that measures thirteen inches long, showing a most vigorous vitality. Living as they do year after year, alfalfa plants develop immense root systems, starting growth early in the season, and are able to withstand extreme drought.

A farmer whose chicks were bothered a good deal by hawks devised a plan which enabled him to trap thirty of the marauders during a single season. He killed a good sized rabbit, staking the carcass down securely by anchoring it to a couple of stakes. He then set two or three steel traps at intervals about and close to the bait. In walking around their prey the hawks would get their feet caught in the traps.

On Memorial Day Honor Women Nurses of the War

THE women who did hospital service continuously, or who kept themselves near the base of armies in the field, or who moved among the camps and traveled with the corps, were an exceptional class—as rare as heroines always are—a class representing no social grade, but coming from all, belonging to no rank or age of life in particular, sometimes young and sometimes old, sometimes refined and sometimes rude, now of fragile physical aspect and then of extraordinary robustness, but, in all cases, women

WOMAN NURSE AT GETTYSBURG REUNION, with a mighty love and earnestness in her heart, a love and pity, and ability to show them forth.

Moved by an indomitable desire to serve in person the victims of wounds and sickness, a few hundred women, impelled by instincts which assured them of their ability to endure the hardships, overcome the obstacles and adjust themselves to the unusual and un feminine circumstances in which they would be placed, made their way through all obstructions at home and at the seat of war or in the hospitals to the bedside of sick and wounded.

They were really heroines. They conquered their feminine sensibility at the sight of blood and wounds; their native antipathy to disorder, confusion and violence subdued the rebellious delicacy of their more exquisite senses; lived coarsely and dressed and slept rudely; they studied the caprices of men to whom their ties were simply human—men often ignorant, feeble minded, out of their senses, raving with pain and fever. They had a still harder service to bear with the pride, the official arrogance, the hardness or the folly, perhaps the impertinence and presumption, of half trained medical men whom the urgencies of the case had fastened on the service. Chickamauga.
The word Chickamauga is of Indian origin. It is said to be a Cherokee name signifying "the river of death." The stream received its name from the accidental drowning of the people of a village by a sudden rise attributed to a cloudburst.

Children's Tan Shoes.
When children's tan shoes look discolored or shabby they may be renovated as follows: Mix a little liquid ammonia with a gill of milk, put into a bottle. Shake the bottle well and apply a little of the liquid with a sponge to the discolored tan shoes. Leave it to dry, and the result will be a pretty tan shade. If the bottle is kept tightly corked the mixture will last for months.

When after many cleanings children's white shoes look gray and shabby they can be made a pretty brown by applying saffron. Mix ten drops of saffron with three teaspoonsful of olive oil. Clean shoes well before applying the mixture, as all dark spots will show. Apply with a piece of clean flannel, and after two coats they will look like new.

Massage For Children.

Children can scarcely be too young for massage if it is administered gently and carefully. It develops their muscles in a marvelous manner. In massaging the baby the mother should put a little oil on her hand, which she should warm first. After the bath is the best time to massage. Twice a day is not too often if she has the time. Massage will strengthen baby's legs and help to correct any inclination to bandiness. Keep the little one off his feet as much as possible.

Coombs to Return to Game.
John Coombs, the Athletics' famous pitcher, will be able to get into the game again in about six weeks. That is the statement given out by the physicians who examined him. Coombs has been wearing a specially made brace to support his back since leaving the hospital last fall. This was removed about three weeks ago, when Coombs went to Philadelphia to be examined by Dr. J. B. Carnett, who has been treating him.

Dr. Carnett found that the old wound had healed and that Coombs suffered no weakness of the back. Coombs weighs 188 pounds and looks to be in fine condition. Dr. Carnett gave the pitcher permission to start exercising at once.

Fritts Has Good Record.
Sailor Fred Fritts, who defeated Tom Kennedy in New York recently, boasts of an impressive record as a "white hope." Fritts began boxing in the navy about eighteen months ago and to date has engaged in twelve bouts, boxing a total of fifty-six rounds. He won nine bouts by knockouts, and in only one was defeated, losing on points to Battling Levinsky.

Fritts won the heavyweight championship of the navy in two battles, knocking out the runner up in two rounds and then the title holder in four. Since leaving the service he has had ten bouts.

O'Day Having Troubles.

Hank O'Day is not having easy sailing with the Cubs. He finds that his infield is not of the proper caliber, and he is thinking seriously of making some changes. Unfortunately for Hank, he is not well fortified with extra material, and he may find it no easy matter to make changes which will benefit his team. The loss of Evers naturally left a big hole in that infield, which until a few years ago was by far the most expert in the game. In the days of Steinfeldt, Tinker, Evers and Chance that infield was a great one, but not one of these players is now a member of the Cubs.

"THE HOME FURNISHER"

A WARTIME WEDDING

By CAPTAIN F. A. MITCHEL.

DURING the civil war the United States navy was largely distributed on the coast of the southern states, blockading the ports of the Confederacy in order that no goods might be exported or imported. The service was usually very dull work.

One afternoon one of the blockading ships was anchored very near to the South Carolina shore. The two junior officers were midshipmen. They were Samuel Keith and James Conyers.

"Jimmy," said Keith, looking longingly at the shore, "how would you like to stretch your legs in that field?"

"Mighty well," replied Conyers. "I wonder if the 'old man' would let us go."

"Let's try him," said the commanding officer when approached, "I'd like to let you go, but that's rebel territory."

But the middies begged so hard that at last he told them they might take a boat and go to the pasture that looked so enticing. But he ordered them to be back on board by six bells, which meant 7 o'clock in the evening. So a boat was sent ashore, manned by eight oarsmen and commanded by the two young officers. Before leaving her the midshipmen directed a petty officer to let the boat's crew wander about with in call.

Then the two started inland. What the young men were after was a house where they could get fresh eatables and drinkables. Seeing a small plantation house ahead of them, a short distance inland, they went there. There was a number of negroes in the surrounding cabins, but only one white person in the house, a woman.

She was a widow, tall and angular and speaking with a drawl. She set before the young men some cold chicken, eggs, vegetables freshly plucked from her own garden and berries with rich cream.

The two middies gorged themselves. When they had finished they asked for the reckoning.

"Fo' hundred dollars," replied the widow.

"Four hundred dollars! Why, we have only four between us!"

They drew forth their money, in greenbacks.

"That ain't no 'count heah," said the woman. "I want fo' hundred dollars."

A COUNTRY TOWN REJUVENATED

How a Social Center Has Succeeded.

NEW COMMUNITY SPIRIT.

Because of Lack of Resident Initiative and Leadership a Certain Village Stagnated and Then Finally Woke Up to Enter Upon a New Regime.

Because of the lack of resident initiative and leadership the village of X, for many years had failed to make any real progress. Similar conditions prevail in hundreds of other communities in our country. They call for leadership, and many of our young men who have the vision and the personality and who are looking about for the best way to invest their lives might well consider the small town as a field of service. On account of the intimate relationship a man has with the people of a small community it is possible for him, through leadership, in a few years to transform an entire village.

That this can be done is shown by the memorial library in the village of X. The library was the gift of a prominent man and his wife who saw the need and gave the building to be used as a social center for the community. The work was started a little over five years ago.

The memorial library includes a well lighted and ventilated auditorium accommodating about 200 people. Here entertainments, fairs and socials are held. Classes in physical culture for both boys and girls are conducted during the winter months. On two evenings a week the people are entertained with the best motion pictures. This serves to keep in their home community the young people who had been in the habit of migrating to neighboring towns for these pleasures. A room containing a billiard table and other games attracts the young men and keeps them from places that are of morally destructive character. Practically every boy and girl in the village is found at the library during the time it is open for their use.

A room with showers and a bathtub was added to the equipment about two years ago and is used by the women and girls on specified days as well as by the men and boys. A manual training shop forms part of the equipment of the Memorial library. Boys from twelve to sixteen years of age have been instructed in making useful articles of furniture.

A domestic science room with every facility for efficient and systematic work in sewing and cooking is included. The girls thoroughly enjoy the work and carry the training into their homes. One year the girls conducted a fair and from the sale of articles realized a considerable sum, which they used to pay their instructor in physical work.

The children are being educated to thrift and economy by a savings system which has been introduced. For several years a number of the village boys have attended a county camp and have been influenced for good through the comradeship and influence of the other boys. One summer a camp for girls was conducted.

Before the new agency came into the life of the village of X, a spirit of depression seemed to permeate the entire community. The inhabitants were discouraged. It was under such conditions that the Memorial library was opened.

In the first year of the work a village improvement committee was organized. This was appointed from the representative men of the village and residents of the surrounding estates, who gladly responded when approached for financial assistance. The first thing the committee decided upon was to light the streets with electricity. It was thought that the taxpayers would not assume this expense until they had seen the great improvement the lights would make in the streets. The committee had the lights installed and for two years met the expense through public subscription. The amount they were obliged to raise was $1,500. The third year a lighting district was established and practically every taxpayer signed the petition to have the lights paid for through taxation.

One of the greatest needs of the village was a water supply. For five years the committee tried to solve this problem, and recently its labors have been rewarded. A company supplying water to a village three miles distant has been induced to extend its mains to the village of X. A fire company is to be organized with its home in the Memorial library.

One of the churches had been struggling for years with a debt. The secretary of the Memorial library offered to co-operate in a canvass to pay off the entire indebtedness. A large paper elephant blocked off to represent various amounts, the aggregate representing the church debt, was placed in one of the stores. Everybody was enlisted to help, and two days before the time appointed for the canvass to close the entire sum had been raised. Everybody gave to "kill the elephant."

The new community spirit which has changed the life and built a new town on the old site was brought about through resident leadership.—Arthur P. Kellogg in Survey.

Literature would pay better if there were not so many dead men in the business.—George Randolph Chester.

Medical Advertising CRYING FOR HELP

Lots of It in Gettysburg But Daily Growing Less.

The kidneys often cry for help. Not another organ in the whole body more delicately constructed; Not one more important to health. The kidneys are the filters of the blood.

When they fail the blood becomes foul and poisonous.

There can be no health where there is poisoned blood.

Backache is one of the frequent indications of kidney trouble.

It is often the kidney's cry for help. Head it.
